

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen any state's (In my case Indiana) Telephone Privacy Law. These businesses call when many are still asleep because some of us do not have to go to work early as others. Further, these telemarketers sometimes "pretend" to know us while at the same time these calls are blocked from our caller ID so we cannot even screen the call. These calls are harassing, undesired and unwanted for many of us. It is for this reason Indiana and many other states have these Telephone Privacy Laws. Then by voluntarily putting our names on this "no call" list we are say that we don't want to be harassed any longer. Ever since putting my household on this "no call" list we have gone from THREE and FOUR telemarketing calls DAILY to maybe ONE or TWO WEEKLY at most. In other words, our house is now peacefull in the mornings before I go to work and even during the rest of the day. This is how it should be.
